Florida Detroit Diesel Allison responds to the massive power outages across Florida.

Miami, Florida, February 26, 2008

Florida Detroit Diesel Allison, a leading supplier of standby and prime power, responds to the state's unexpected power outage spreading from Miami to Orlando, company officials said Tuesday.

"We have released inventory at all nine of our statewide locations and have made rental units immediately available from very low kW power to high-powered megawatt generators as part of our emergency planning for businesses in Florida." Says Len Hernandez, Generator Sales Manager.

Florida Detroit Diesel Allison generators range from the traditional standby generator sets found in high-rise condominiums, universities and municipal public works to robust uninterruptible power supplies required by datacenters, critical life safety systems and federal facilities.

Florida Detroit Diesel-Allison, Inc. (FDDA) is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Detroit Diesel Corporation. It is the authorized distributor for Detroit Diesel, Mercedes-Benz Engines, MTU/DDC Power Generation, MTU, and Allison products and services.
